Born in the small town of Brigham City, UT, Russell's artistic enthusiasm was first fostered by his father and artist, Garry Case. Garry encouraged Russell's artistic talents and helped him seek exposure through marketing and local galleries. After graduating in 1990 from Utah State University and with the support of his wife, Susanne, Russell decided to dedicate himself to painting full time. As a western painter, he is inspired by nature but he places little value on literal translations. Viewers of his art may be reminded of other great artists of the west, whose work is marked by distinctive artistic philosophies. Russell's work is unfettered by philosophy and intellect though he is surely a student of his artistic forebears. The monumental scale of Maynard Dixon, or the unfiltered color and light of Thomas Moran both find their way into his visual language. Around the year 2000, Paul Bingham, a fine art dealer from San Jose who had purchased the estate of Maynard Dixon, became acquainted with Russell and was soon an invaluable force in the success of the young artist's career. and his exclusive representative Russell now resides in Brigham City, Utah.

Bill Cramer grew up in southern California and always had an interest in exploring nature and art. Creating things came naturally to him and was an ever-present aspect of his youth. As an experienced rock climber, he spent many years enjoying the more vertical places of the American west, providing him a perspective of the world that few others would ever experience. Bill received a fine arts degree from California State University Long Beach in 1989. Later, he and his wife, Michelle, moved to Prescott, AZ to be closer to the scenery that they both enjoyed. As Bill discovered the joys and challenges of landscape painting, his outdoor experience provided insight and inspiration, which then were expressed in his art. He draws further artistic energy from the great California Impressionists and Western landscape painters of the early 1900's. Whether working en plein air or in the studio, Bill prefers a direct method of oil painting. "I am satisfied when a painting is as rich as the landscape that inspired it. My goal is to keep exploring the southwest's wild places searching for new ideas..." Today, with his wife and two daughters, Sarah and Megan, Bill divides his time between family, art and outdoor pursuits.
