Diane and her husband have owned and operated a lodge in Alaska, where they have lived for forty years. They now enjoy their winters in Zion, where she loves the color. Thus, her painting, mono-prints, and beaded jewelry are full of color and contrast. Although she has a master's degree in biology and education, Diane's passion is art.

Shawn Forsman and John Parken are co-owners of Kinesava GlassWorks. With their varied backgrounds of "recovering attorney" now paramedic, and case manager and crisis counselor, respectively, they moved to the Florida Keys in the early 1990's. After Hurricane Wilma destroyed their studio in 2005, they relocated to Springdale. John and Shawn have a collaborative process in their art and specialize in lamps, sconces, bowls, tiles and jewelry.
